

Call for Proposals
2008 AASU & SSU Collaborative Teaching & Research Grants
Armstrong Atlantic State University & Savannah State University

The Offices of Academic Affairs at Armstrong Atlantic State University and Savannah State University call for proposals for funding collaborative teaching and research projects for the 2008 spring semester. Grants of up to $2,500 are available for team projects that can demonstrate a propensity to enhance teaching and/or research at both campuses. Final decisions on funding will be made by the Vice President of Academic Affairs at AASU and the Vice President of Academic Affairs at SSU.

General Guidelines

- Proposals must be submitted by two project directors: one faculty or staff member from AASU and one from SSU. All full-time faculty and staff members at both AASU and SSU are eligible to apply. Student participation in proposed projects is encouraged, but applications must be submitted by faculty or staff.
- Grant-supported projects must be implemented and awards must be spent during the spring semester of 2008.
- Projects must explicitly address issues related to university-level teaching and/or research.
- If the project includes research involving human subjects, Institutional Review Board (IRB) approval may be submitted after the deadline of December 3 but must be submitted before the grant can be awarded.
- Applications must be made using the attached form. The review criteria (on the next page) should be addressed using no more than four pages (double-spaced, 12-point font) in addition to the attached form. No attachments other than IRB approvals are permitted.
- Proposals will be evaluated using the criteria on the next page.
- Grant recipients must submit final project reports to the Vice President of Academic Affairs at their home institutions no later than September 12, 2008.
- Completed applications must be received by 4:00 p.m. on Monday, December 10, 2007. The original application and two copies are to be delivered to the Office of Academic Affairs at either AASU (Burnett Hall, Room 183) or SSU (Colston Administration Building, Room 204).
- For further information, contact Dick Nordquist (AASU) at (921) 921 5991 or Joan Maynor (SSU) at (912) 356 2178.

Competition Review Criteria for Collaborative Teaching and Research Grants

In general, projects submitted to this competition should facilitate collaborative initiatives between faculty and/or staff at AASU and SSU. The projects should aim to strengthen the quality of classroom instruction and student learning and/or foster research and scholarship. For example, faculty may propose innovative plans for: team teaching on both campuses, field trips involving students from two or more classes, community projects with a service-learning component, shared lab experiences, or exploratory research projects that may eventually be extended or expanded through external funding. Although the range of project options and opportunities is wide, applicants should clearly explain the expected outcomes, the methods of assessment, and the strategies for communicating results to other interested faculty.

I. Project Description

Have the applicants clearly described the nature and purpose of the proposed project?

II. Demonstrated Need

Does the proposal show the significance of the project to university students, the academic discipline(s), the two universities, and/or the applicants' professional development? Is there evidence that what is requested in the proposal is necessary to the project?

III. Feasibility & Personnel Qualifications

Is it demonstrated that the project can be completed with the available resources and in the time allowed? Is the necessary institutional commitment shown in comments by the dean or department head? Do the applicants appear to be qualified to implement the project as defined?

IV. Implementation Plan

Does the proposal clearly explain how the proposed activities will address the demonstrated need? If appropriate, does the proposal include a timeline indicating work that has already been done and work that must still be implemented?

If the project involves enhancement of courses, are effective instructional methods being proposed, and does the proposal explain how activities will improve teaching and learning?

V. Evaluation of Outcomes/Impact

Have the expected outcomes been identified clearly, and has a method for evaluating those outcomes been provided?

Does the proposal clearly identify the scholarly product(s) that might result from this project and the methods for communicating results to other interested faculty and staff?

VI. Budget Justification

Have the applicants provided a breakdown of the costs for the project, and does the budget seem reasonable for both the effort and the anticipated results?

VII. Compliance with Application Procedures

Is the body of the proposal no more than four pages, 12-point font and double-spaced?

Have the two project directors each secured a signature from the appropriate department head or dean? (If not, the proposal cannot be reviewed.)

Have the applicants provided the original application plus two copies for review?
